

January 7, 2005

CHARLOTTESVILLE– Where better for Robert Redd, LLC to headquarter their corporate office than Charlottesville, Virginia? A Virginian himself, Robert Redd always found muse for his brilliantly manufactured and enthusiastically inspired products from the comfort of his rural surroundings.

After visiting the REDD headquarters, one can easily see how inspiration came easily to a resident of the awe-inspiring Blue Ridge Mountains and thriving collegiate community of the University of Virginia. Located in charming downtown Charlottesville, Robert Redd, LLC calls 108 2nd Street, N.E. home to its corporate office.

Robert Redd, LLC excels in creating, designing, and producing the most unique consumer products. Notably, the initial Redd® products were fine gentleman's knits. The products are comprised of the finest materials, matched with unique colors and are intelligently conceived so that both the products and brand appeal to the gentleman or lady with the highest personal regard for his or her wardrobe.

The legend of Robert Redd™, tracing back to before the turn of the century, was founded on a love of both adventure and of the finer things in life. Robert Redd, LLC continues to evolve holding true to the most defining characteristics of its original inspiration, especially those derived from his family's motto, "Extend Love, 'Tis what you truly are". Many more colorful adventures exist and once properly researched, will be reported faithfully by Robert Redd, LLC.

For more information, send an email to info@robertredd.com, or call 434-979-9191.